Once upon a time, in the country of the Half mad, which was cut off from the western end of Europe in Prehistoric times of prevent the inhabitants from injuring any but themselves, the king fell ill. As he had always been well spoken of, and had established very kindly relations with his subjects, his illness caused a great increase of their affection for him and for his family. All the married women saw in the Queen a wife anxious about her husband, with a sick bed to provide for. All the men saw in the king a fellow man suffering as they themselves had suffered or might at any moment have to suffer. For sickness is a great leveller, and consequently a great breeder of Sympathy, unlike that Imposter Death, who gives a Pompous eminence to even the humblest.

17. Read the following passage carefully and answer the questions that follow.

There are many steps you can take as an individual to reduce waste and environmental pollution. While saving the environment can seem like a daunting task, you can contribute on an individual level by making small changes.

First consider, how much plastic or other slow-to-biodegrade waste you are putting into the trash and recycling every day. While many people have admirably abandoned plastic straws for reusable steel or glass straws, you can go even further by purchasing a reusable coffee mug. If you are the kind of person who buys a coffee every weekday from a coffee shop, that's 260 cups and lids that won't go into the trash.

Another simple substitution that will save you from generating a lot of waste is switching from single-use paper towels and napkins to cloth towels and napkins. You can reuse the same cloth towel and napkin multiple times before it needs to be washed, and a high-quality cloth will last for years.

In a similar vein, you can abandon single-use plastic bags. To encourage shoppers to reduce their reliance on plastic bags, many municipalities have started to charge customers for each bag required for their purchases or banned the use of plastic bags altogether. Even if you live in a place where these changes have not yet happened, you can commit to carrying reusable cloth with you when you shop. A quick tip: keep the bags in your car so you always have them with you. Finally, consider food waste. Be sure to eat your leftovers. You can get creative by making soups from leftover meat bones, vegetables, and starches like pasta or rice. Also, don't forget to compost your food. Your garden and your planet will thank you. Keeping these simple adjustments in mind can go long way in reducing waste.

- (a) What makes the best title for this passage?
- (b) What are the steps to could help to reduce food and plastic waste?
- (c) What describes the structure of the passage?
- (d) Which details from the passage supports the argument that individuals can reduce waste?
- (e) What are the steps to reduce the waste products?

17. Narrate about the recent book you have read.
18. Make notes of the following:

The one industry that remains unaffected by any depression in trade is the beauty industry. The women world over continue to spend money on their faces and bodies even when there is a great slump in other areas of trade. The number of advertisements proclaiming the miracles performed by the various beauty aids goes to support the fact that, today.

The richer the man gets the more obsessed he becomes with high powered cars and electronic gadgets and bank balances. On the contrary, the women, especially the urban upper middle class women, find their bodies and faces worthy of inventing a major part of their income.

As a result of the number of beauty parlours that have sprung up in every street corner of the metropolises, and the exercises, the health motors and the skin foods that they offer, you can hardly run into an old woman these days. One could say “old ladies” are fast becoming an extinct species. White hair, wrinkles, bent backs and hollow cheeks are features of a bygone era. Cosmetic surgery has slowly eradicated these unwanted phenomena. If children of posterity want to look at an old woman, they might have to run to an art gallery and find a medieval painting.

19. Being a reporter present a report to his newspaper about the proceedings of it.
20. Write about your sagging movements during the lockdown and express it to your friend.
