To avoid the various foolish opinions to which mankind is prone, no superhuman genius is required.

A few simple rules will keep you out from silly error. If the matter is one that can be selected by observation, make the observation yourself. Aristotle could have avoided the mistake of thinking that women have fewer teeth than men, by the simple device of asking Mrs. Aristotle to keep her mouth open while he counted. He did not do so because he thought he knew. Thinking that you know when in fact you don't is a fatal mistake, to which we are all prone. I believe myself that hedgehogs eat black beetles, because I have been told that they do; but if were writing a book on the habits of hedgehogs, I should not commit myself until I had seen one enjoying this unappetizing diet. Aristotle, however, was less cautious. Ancient and medieval authors knew all about unicorns and salamanders; not one of them thought it necessary to avoid dogmatic statements about them because he had never seen one of them.

Questions :

- (a) What was the foolish opinion Aristotle had regarding women?
 - (b) What could he have done to avoid this foolish opinion?
 - (c) Why didn't Aristotle try to do that?
 - (d) What were the mistakes committed by Ancient writers while they wrote about unicorns?
 - (e) What would the writer do if he were to write a book on Hedgehogs? Why does he say so?
